Student Attendance Policy

Academic Year: 2026–2027

Document ID: RVRJC-ATT-003

Version: 2.0

Effective Date: 01 July 2026

Policy Owner: Office of Academic Affairs

1. Purpose

The Attendance Policy establishes minimum attendance requirements and procedures for attendance monitoring, shortage, condonation, and appeals.

2. Minimum Attendance Requirement

Every student must maintain a minimum of 75% attendance in each registered course. Attendance is calculated separately for each course.

3. Attendance Recording

Faculty members are responsible for recording attendance accurately. Attendance may be recorded using digital systems, classroom registers, laboratory systems, or approved biometric systems. Students are responsible for regularly checking their attendance records.

4. Attendance Categories

75% or above: Eligible

65%–74%: Potentially eligible for condonation

Below 65%: Normally not eligible

Condonation is not automatic.

5. Attendance Condonation

Students with attendance between 65% and 74% may apply for condonation when permitted. Applications should include student details, course information, attendance percentage, reason for shortage, and supporting documentation.

6. Medical Reasons

Students absent for medical reasons may submit valid medical documentation. Documentation should normally be submitted within five working days after returning. Submission does not automatically guarantee condonation.

7. Participation in College Activities

Students representing the College in officially approved activities may receive attendance consideration according to College rules. Examples include inter-collegiate competitions, technical events, approved sports events, cultural programs, and official conferences.

8. Laboratory Attendance

Laboratory courses require attendance because practical sessions cannot always be replicated through regular classroom instruction. Approved make-up sessions may be required.

9. Attendance Shortage

Students below the required threshold may be prevented from appearing for examinations, required to submit a condonation application, required to repeat a course, or referred to an academic advisor.

10. Attendance Disputes

Students identifying an incorrect attendance entry should contact the concerned faculty member. If unresolved, the student may approach the Head of Department. Disputes should normally be raised within seven working days.

11. Faculty Responsibility

Faculty members must record attendance accurately, update records within prescribed time, inform students about shortages, maintain records, and report final attendance before examination eligibility is determined.

12. Student Responsibility

Students must attend scheduled classes, monitor attendance, inform faculty about legitimate absences, and submit required documentation promptly.

13. Attendance and Examination Eligibility

Attendance is one requirement for appearing in end-semester examinations. Students not eligible because of attendance shortage may not receive examination clearance.
